26th AFRICAN AVIATION CONFERENCE: MRO AFRICA

AFRICAN AVIATION MILITARY MRO

26TH AFRICAN AVIATION MILITARY MRO

JOHANNESBURG, SOUTH AFRICA—MARCH 2017

PRESENTATIONS AND DEBATES BY HIGH-LEVEL INDUSTRY EXPERTS

The aim of the African Aviation Military MRO Breakout Day is to critically examine the Maintenance, Repair & Overhaul, Training & Logistics challenges facing Africa's Air Forces, Police Air Wings, Maritime Patrol organisations and Aerial Surveillance organisations, among others, and to seek practical and cost-effective solutions to these challenges.

Maintenance: Maintaining the existing aircraft and helicopter fleets operated by African Air Forces and Police Air Wings is of critical importance. However, many of these aircraft assets are under-utilised due to the challenge of funding maintenance programmes both within and outside Africa. It is essential that these fleets are adequately maintained to uphold air safety in Africa. Furthermore, African Air Forces are increasingly being required to assist the UN and other international organisations in providing vital air services in relief programmes and peace missions throughout Africa. Hence the need for a well-maintained fleet which can quickly respond to these emergencies.

Training: An effective African Air Force or Police Air Wing requires a well trained and skilled manpower. However, over the years due to retirement, human resources erosion and a manpower brain drain, Africa's Air Forces and Police Air Wings face a huge challenge in training, re-training and retaining adequate skilled human resources to ensure they can perform the highly skilled tasks required of them.

These issues will be addressed as well as other issues in a critical manner with a particular thrust on promoting and securing co-operation and co-ordinating strategies to enhance the effectiveness of African Air Forces and Police Air Wings.

The Breakout Sessions will be attended by top officials from Air Forces and Police Air Wings from throughout Africa, as well as by Government officials, African and International partners in the fields of Maintenance, Repair & Overhaul, Training & Aviation Defence Logistics.
